Foreword

Saint Paul's Memorial Chapel

The philosophy of Saint Paul's College, espoused by its founders and undergirding the work of the Saint Paul's Family today, perhaps best reveals itself in our dominant purpose to develop a community fully dedicated to stimulating in young people wholesome, ethical, social, and academic attitudes and skills. Functional Christian character, functional intellect, and functional skill in living creatively and in contributing creatively to family, community, and the world are the goals which the College seeks in the development of every student.

Introduction

Buildings are just buildings; they are nothing without the personalities who inhabit them and make them come alive with activity. This is Saint Paul's College. A college can not exist without its students, and the essence of college is symbolized in its seniors. Here it is not uncommon to walk down a hall and listen to students whose conversations range from the latest classroom assignment, the latest fashion to their latest solution to the problems of mankind. Life here is a variety of people, places and things.

Four years ago, we came from all parts of the country. We have been able to live and work together and to form life long friendships. Spring will mark the culminating point of our experiences at Saint Paul's. Some seniors will venture out into the business world and the world of the teacher. Others will seek success in the professions, such as medicine and law.

Yes, this is Saint Paul's College, and it is slipping by ever so fast now. Soon it will be a part of the past, but our memories will always be a part of the present. Every Saint Paulite possesses a love for his college and what she stands for and what she teaches him to stand for. In this Annual, we hope to capture and render to you a picture of the life we lead as students of Saint Paul's College.

The students of Saint Paul's make it what it is. The atmosphere is one of friendliness and warmth. There is a continuing flux of activity. The dormitory walls are bursting with a milieu of laughter, sorrow, serious studying, record playing and bull sessions. A student with arms full of books crosses the rolling hills of the campus many times in search of knowledge. But there is also time for fun and pageantry; time to crown a homecoming queen or a fraternity queen.

When the long day is safely over, there are moments of relaxation. A student browses through the library, plays a variety of games or simply sits down to friendly chatter. At other times the roar of the student body fills the gym as the Tigers score another basket. Soon a bell will be heard, tolling out the news of a Tiger victory. At times there is the colorfulness of fraternity and sorority lines, and the excitement of All-Greek Day.

There are other times in a student's experiences here. Times when he feels that he stands alone. He searches within himself and finds that there is not strength for every trial. Yet in the quietness of chapel, far from the turbulence of campus life, he looks above and finds again the visions of his destiny.

Dedication

To Our Parents And Advisors

To those who loved the best;
To those who gave the most;
To those who ignited within our hearts, hope;
We the class of 1966 dedicate this book.

It was your wisdom that plotted the course;
It was your prayers that lighted our eternal flames;
It was your experience that guided our feet aright;
For this we submit our sincere appreciation.

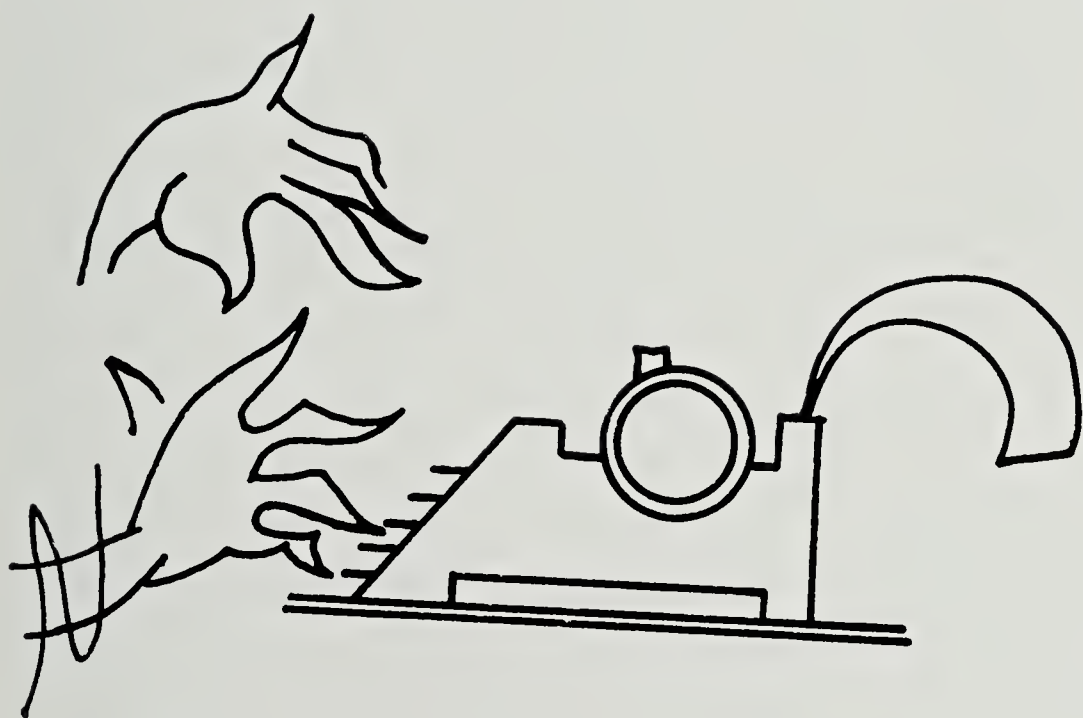

For your Christ-like ears that listened so well
and understood our problems;
For your Sampson-like shoulders, upon which we leaned
so heavily;
For your Solomon-like minds that helped to solve
the unsolvable;
We pledge, in your honor, our intentions toward success.

On the landmark that distinguishes this milestone
in each of our lives, Dear Parents and Advisors—
We write your names.

President's Message

SAINT PAUL'S COLLEGE

LAWRENCEVILLE, VIRGINIA - 23060

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

February 18, 1966

The 1966 Senior Class
Saint Paul's College
Lawrenceville, Virginia

Dear Friends:

These are times of unparalleled challenges, opportunities, and perils in the world. There is nothing in man's recorded history even remotely to approach the changes, the progress, and the tribulations, too, of the mid-Twentieth Century. These are times of "small" wars and rumors of potentially cataclysmic holocausts. It is also an era that envisions The Great Society and the hoped-for leaps ahead in education, standards of living, beautification, and conservation; the wars on disease and the pollution of our waters and the air we breathe; the assault on Outer Space and journeys to the stars and planets whose distances from Earth are difficult to comprehend; and a whole galaxy of steps to insure man's dignity, equality, broadened opportunity, and longer life expectancy.

It is not being pessimistic to link any of the somber and sobering references above to things which are part of man's innermost dreams and aspirations. The world in which you live--and in which, shortly, you will labor--is that kind of world. When Commencement comes there is happiness, and deservedly so. Commencement is in truth a landmark, but by definition it is also a major beginning for each of you. What is important is what the Epistles remind us: "He has half the deed done, who has made a beginning."

As the next group of undergraduates who will shortly enter that splendid family of Saint Paul's Alumni, permit me to speak, first, of what Saint Paul's has sought to do on your behalf as future citizens and, second, something of your continuing relationship to Alma Mater--a relationship which entails obligations.

Just as the Nation and the world community can, if man's avarice and proneness to conflict can be contained, reach near-Utopian peace and prosperity, so is Saint Paul's College on the near verge of great growth and expansion for the benefit of the ever-burgeoning waves of college-bound youths. The College has endeavored to do more than teach you by rote; it has sought to provide you with a broadening, liberalizing education. It has tried to infuse you with a progressive maturity that has nothing to do with the calendar, but a maturity in intellectual outlook, in moral certitudes, in spiritual values.

Having said that, I come now to the question, What Next?, after that day in May when the bachelor's degree is conferred upon you to the Glory of Almighty

The 1966 Senior Class

God. Saint Paul's, like all colleges, must and, I am confident, will have the continuing and increased financial support of those who have been trained here in skills, attitudes, and values during their undergraduate years.

We, for our part, have too much faith in your thinking processes, which have been honed in your years on-campus, to belabor the point of the absolute necessity of Alumni support, unwaning interest, and financial assistance. I will add only this:

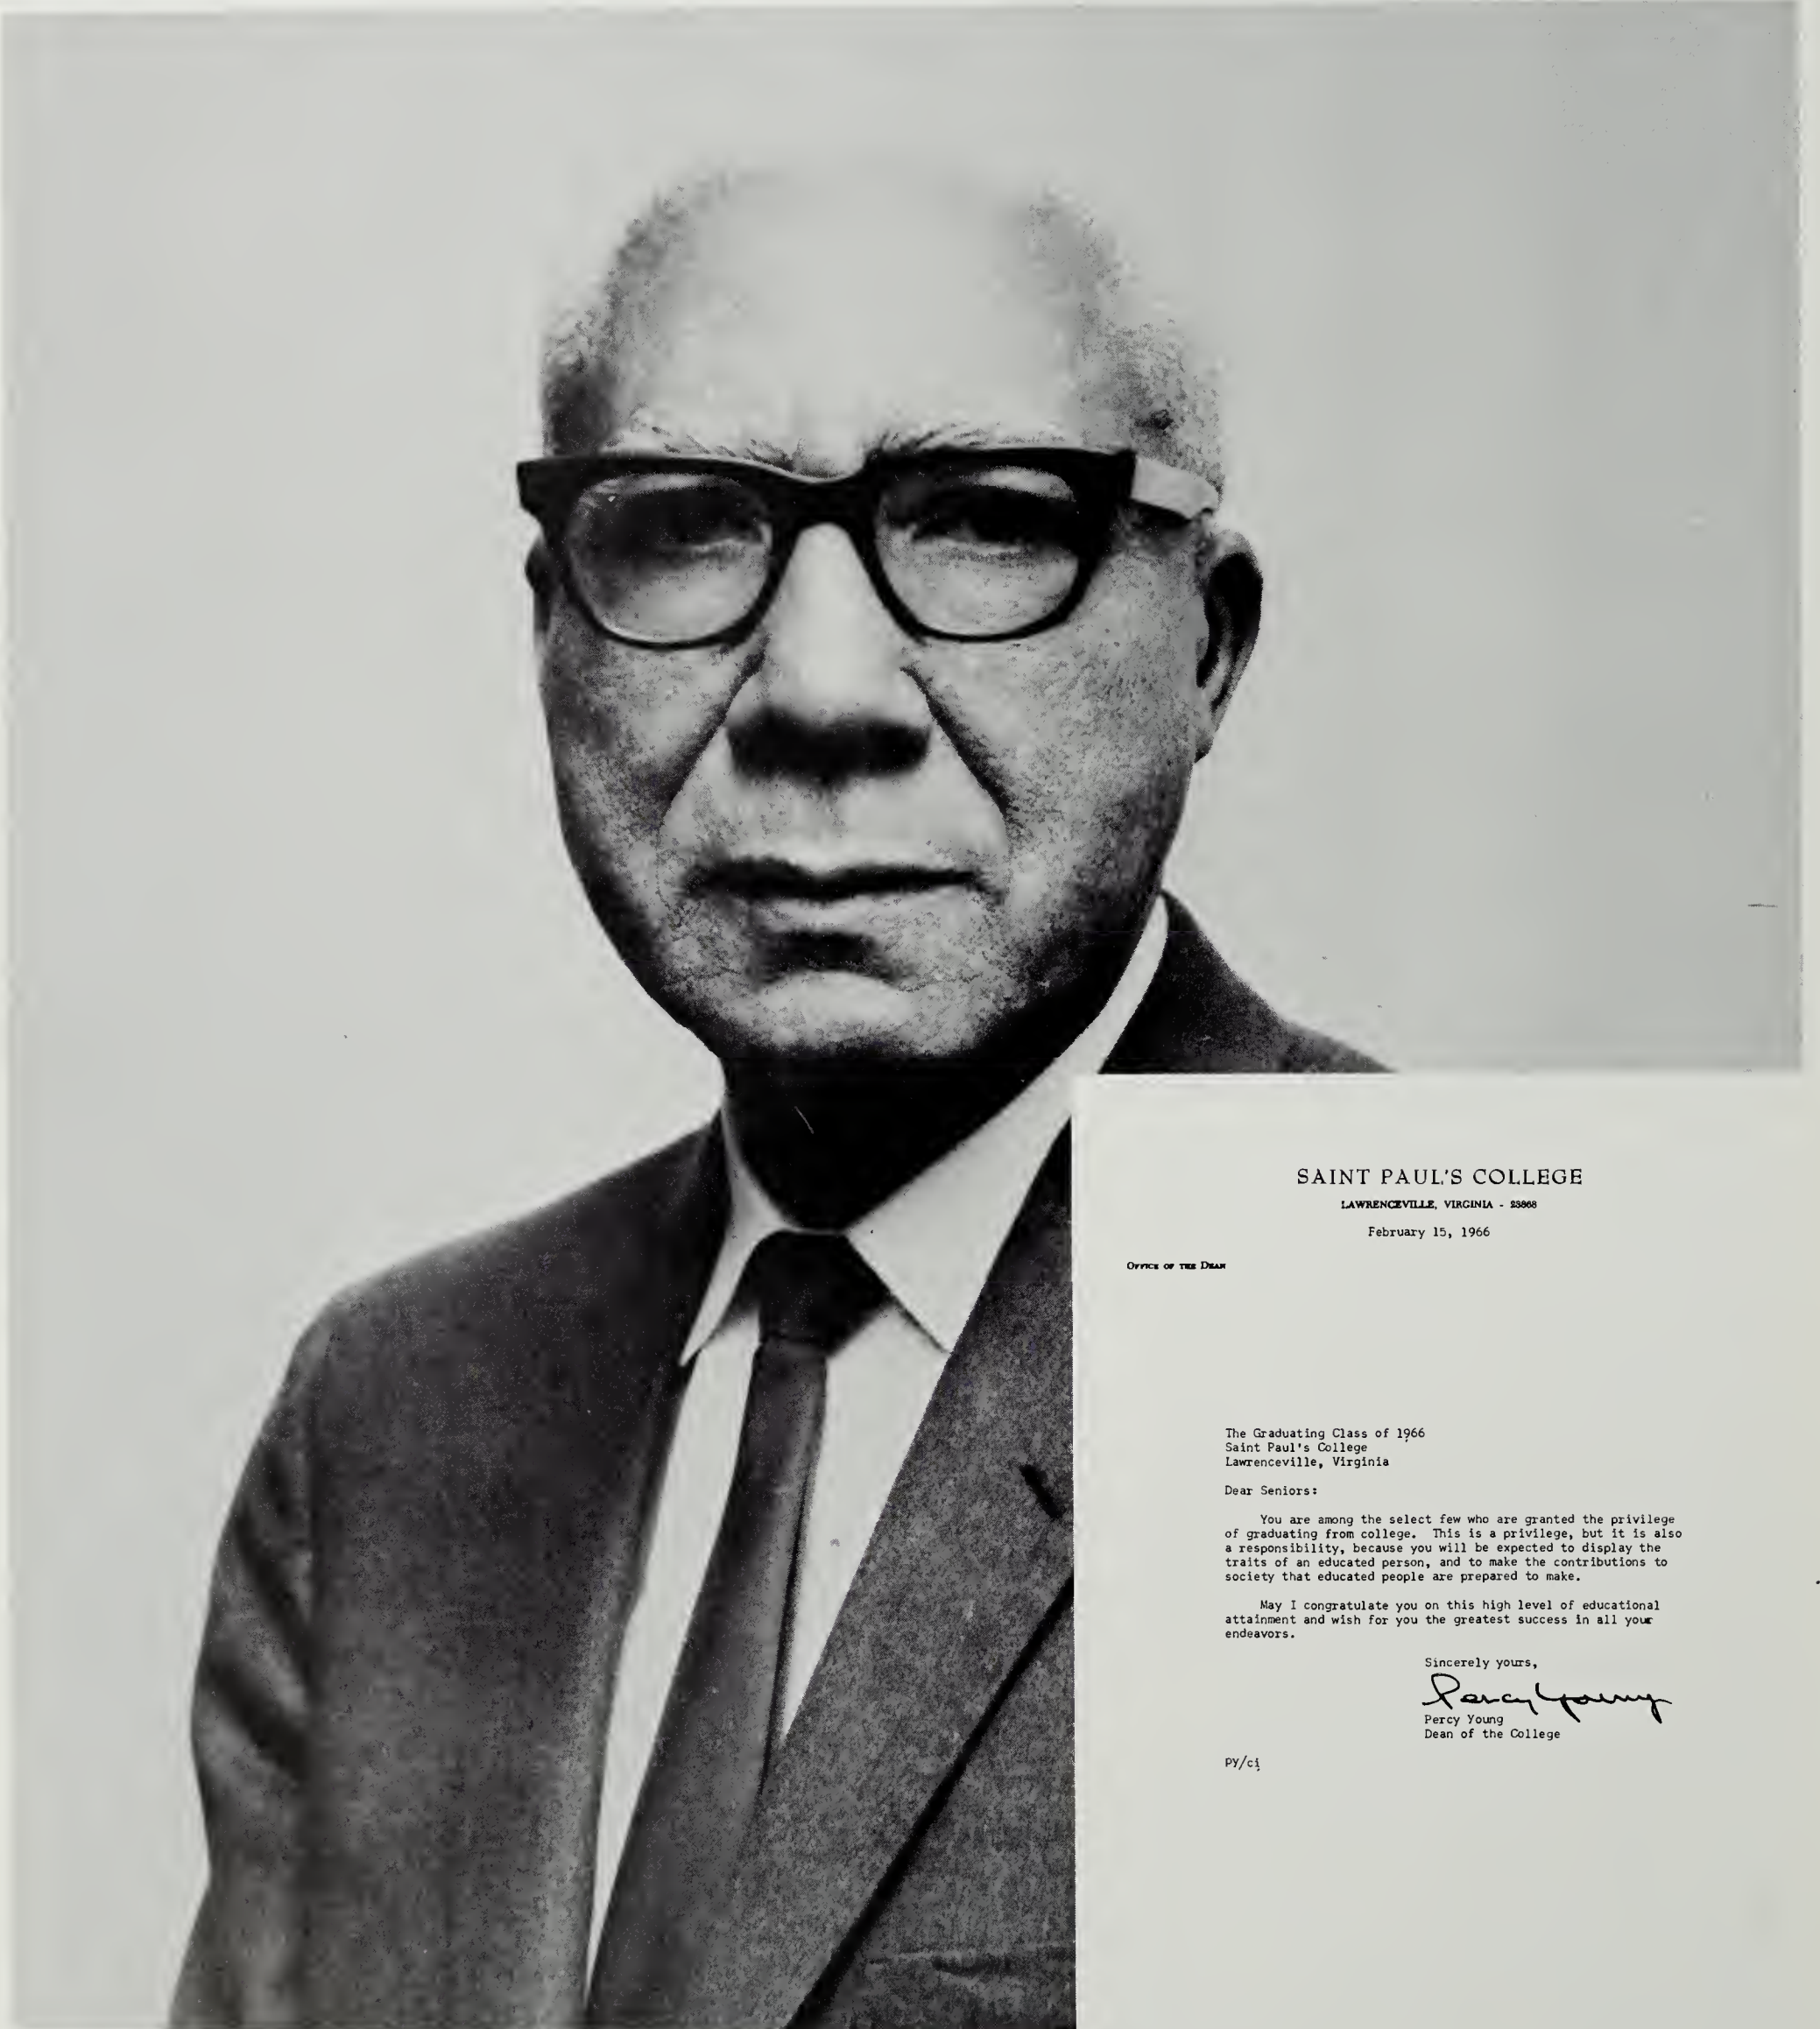

The spirit of duty and the sense of opportunity presented by those who observe the practice of tithing must pervade every alumnus. Each one who has lived, learned, and in turn left Saint Paul's must confess a shortcoming which I do not, in fact, believe exists. In any case, you should be not only grateful for the education which you received, but you must be greatly concerned with broadening the chances for sound education for today's and tomorrow's youths of all classes, creeds, and colors.

Wherever you may be or whatever you may be doing, the lasting good will of Saint Paul's will be with you steadily. May God go with you all, all the way.

Sincerely yours,

Earl H. McClenney

OFFICE OF THE DEAN

The Graduating Class of 1966
Saint Paul's College
Lawrenceville, Virginia

Dear Seniors:

You are among the select few who are granted the privilege of graduating from college. This is a privilege, but it is also a responsibility, because you will be expected to display the traits of an educated person, and to make the contributions to society that educated people are prepared to make.

May I congratulate you on this high level of educational attainment and wish for you the greatest success in all your endeavors.

Sincerely yours,

Percy Young

Education

A large percentage of our students here are trained for teaching, consequently, the Education Department is a vital part of the college's program. In the tradition of education, the department seeks to educate the student so that he will in turn shape and influence the lives of other individuals. To this end, a Student Teaching Program is emphasized which gives the student an opportunity to make effective use of principles given him in the classroom.

English

The Department of English seeks to enlarge a student's cultural development through intelligent and personal experience with some of the valuable literature of our language. In addition, it seeks to guide the student toward a more effective expression of his own thoughts and ideas. In our world today, it is not enough to be fluent in one language. The college, therefore, encourages the student to pursue a study of at least one or more foreign languages.

Social Science

The Social Sciences deal with man in society. The Department of Social Science seeks to prepare the student to play a role in the drama of social life. To play that role well, the student must know the nature of man, his aspirations and his accomplishments. It is hoped that such knowledge will provide a broad background for the student, and inspire him with hope and faith in his own ability to achieve physical, moral, intellectual, artistic and spiritual excellence.

Natural Science

Science and mathematics are the challenges of our modern age. All students should have knowledge of both in order to be conservant in his field whether it is in the humanities, social sciences, education, etc. In today's accelerated world, The Department of Natural Science fulfills a glaring need for efficiency in this area.

Business and Economics

Through its three programs of study, the Department of Business and Economics seeks to prepare students for gainful employment and effective citizenship in a highly competitive and ever-changing society.

The program in General Business aids in preparing students for managerial positions in private business, government, and industry. Business Education is designed to prepare teachers of business subjects on the secondary level; the Secretarial Science program seeks to prepare competent secretaries.

Music and Art

Our country is now becoming recognized as the leader of the world in the arts as well as the sciences. Music and art flourishes as a part of our national life. The importance of music and art is hard to measure in practical terms, but to the enhancement and perpetuation of culture, music and art are invaluable.

SAINT PAUL'S COLLEGE

Formerly Saint Paul's Polytechnic Institute
FOUNDED BY JAMES SOLOMON RUSSELL—1888
(INCORPORATED 1899)
LAWRENCEVILLE, VIRGINIA - 23868

November 22, 1965

My dear Seniors,

We have labored hard to-gether for four years in preparation for this great day. Working with you has been a challenge as well as a great source of pleasure. I know that it is with a feeling of mixed emotions that you look forward to the end of your college career. As you make your final exit through these portals and recede the beloved surroundings of your Alma Mater, the days which lie ahead will afford many opportunities for you to serve, to live commendable lives, and to weave your talents into the social fabric for its betterment. Yes, at times the threads will become snarled and the pattern will seem a little distorted but always remember the words of the poet who said: --

If the pattern of life looks dark to you
And the threads seem twisted and queer
To the One who is planning the whole design,
It's perfectly plain and clear --

For it's all a part of God's loving plan,
When He works in His threads of gray,
And they'll only make brighter the rose and gold
Of another happier day.

Much success and God's blessings.

Sincerely,

Arabella W. Cooley

There is an old saying that the Freshman Class can come to no good, and that they are the lowest form of life on a campus. This class, however, set out to prove the sages wrong. They have become a part of the life of the campus, and they are true to the traditions of Saint Paul's College.

Freshman Frolic

Boy, this is some life.

Hey freshman. Where's your beanie?

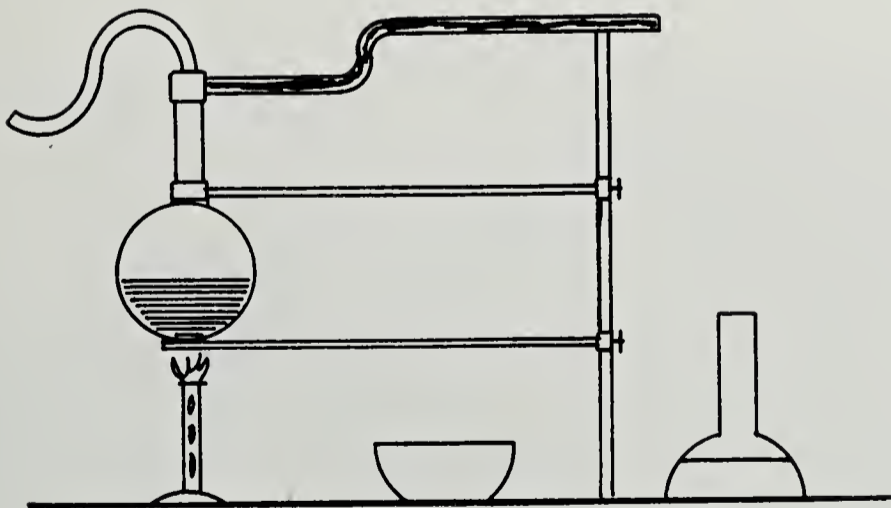

Is this the right building?

The tallest and the shortest.

Organizations

Student - Faculty - Council

Every College has an organization for student government. At Saint Paul's College, it is the Student-Faculty Council. The officers of the Council are elected in the spring and are installed in the fall. Each class is represented in the body. The primary function of the organization is to consider areas of special interest to the students and the administration and to formulate policies acceptable to both groups.

Pre-Alumni Club

A strong and enthusiastic Alumni is important to a college. Saint Paul's is no exception to this rule. Therefore, students must be acquainted with the responsibilities they will face as future Alumni. This is the purpose of the Pre-Alumni Club.

Nellie Pratt Russell S-VTA

Prospective teachers are considered an integral part of the Virginia Teachers Association. The S-VTA provides a medium for interested students to learn extensively about the teaching profession and its innovations.

Saint Paul's Chapter, established in 1953 as the Future Teachers of America is named in honor of Mrs. Nellie Pratt Russell, retired English teacher and former advisor of the organization.

Over the years, Saint Paul's College has been noted for its warmth and friendliness. Much of the credit for this reputation can be given to the Hostess Committee.

Because of the work of this committee no stranger or visitor to our campus should ever feel uneasy. A warm welcome awaits all guests of Saint Paul's College.

Phi Beta Lambda

The Alpha Rho Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda was established at Saint Paul's in 1962. Its purpose is to develop better business leaders through supplementing classroom instructions with practical business experiences.

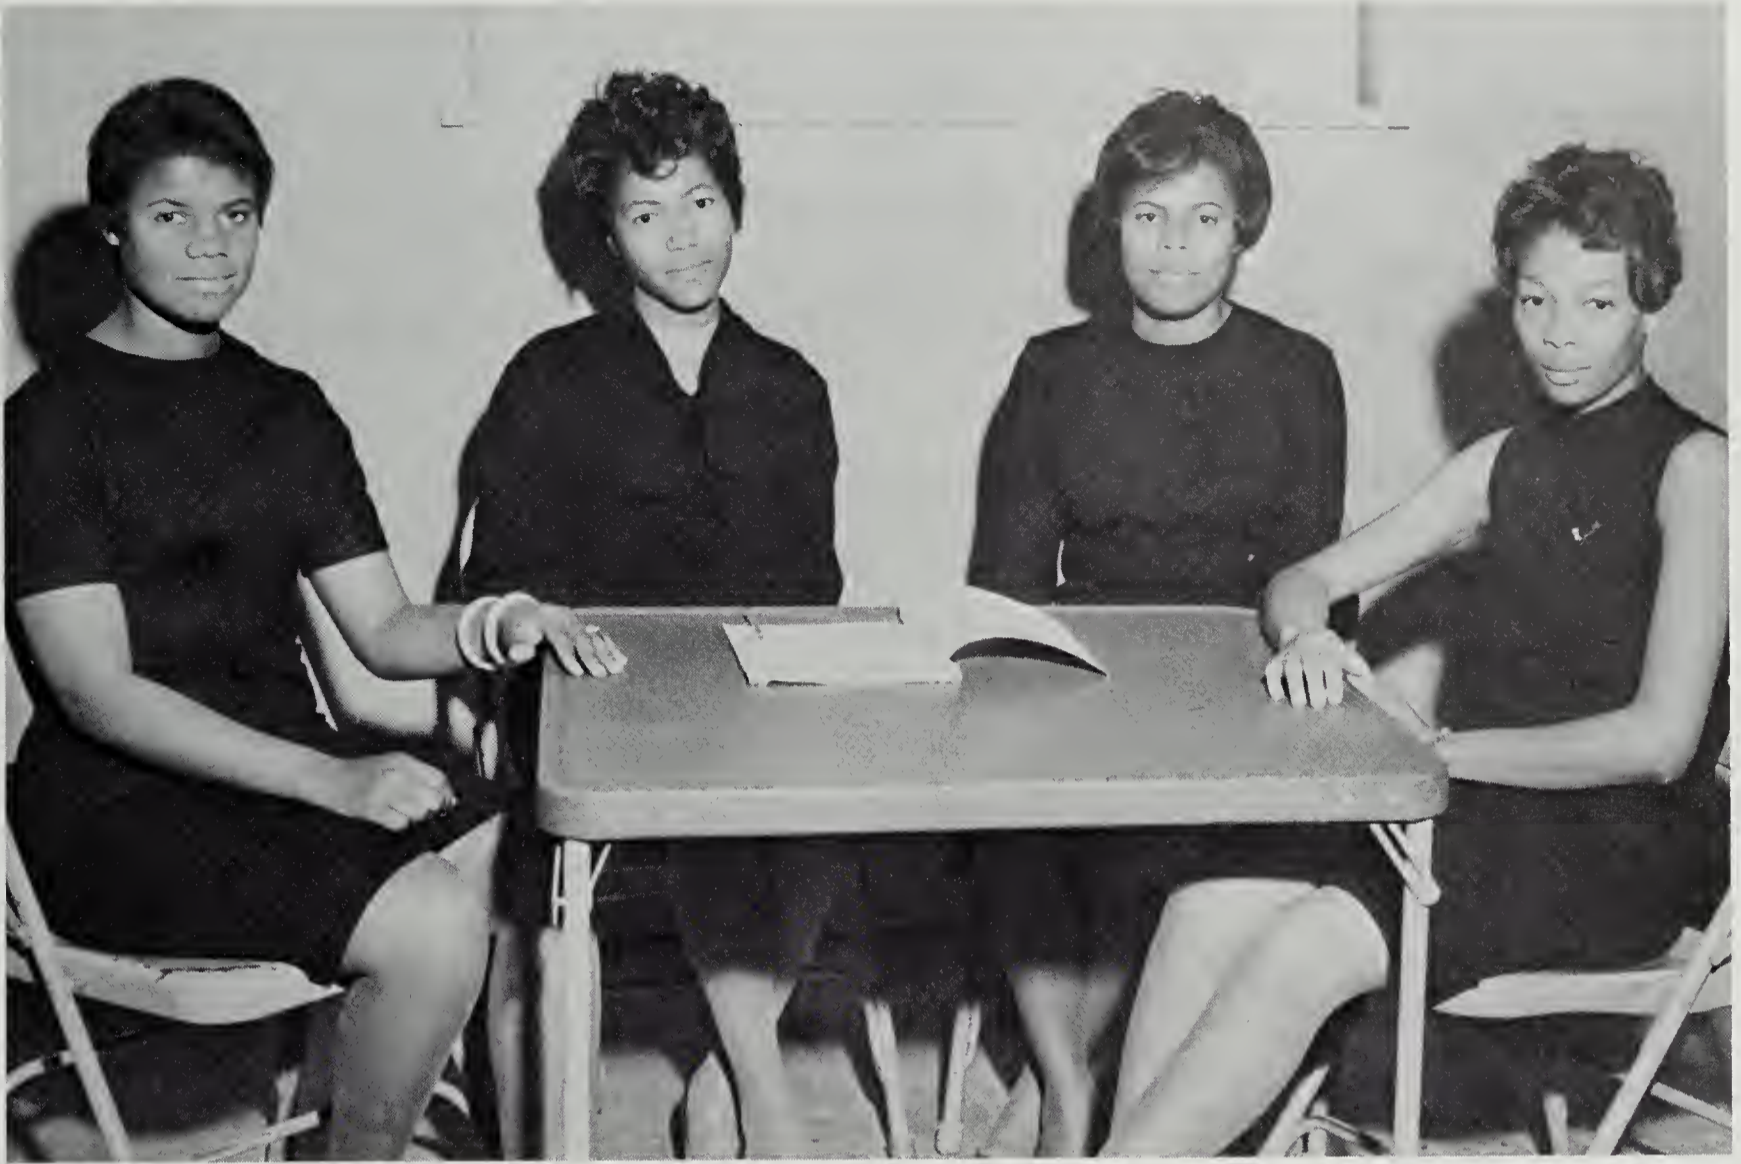

The members of the Marie Jane McNeil Library Club inherited a rich tradition dating from 1946.

Realizing that knowledge is the key to success, members of the Club seek to acquire extensive knowledge through reading as a leisure time activity. As Francis Bacon said, "Reading maketh a full man."

Women's Judiciary Board

The Women's Judiciary Board is an organization of representatives from the various classes. The Board's function is to aid in democratic dormitory administration. It plans activities, programs and projects of benefit to the women residents and the student body.

This year, a new feature has been added in Emery Hall, the Senior Mentors, or better known as "wise counselors."

The Student Journal

The Student Journal holds a unique position in the life of Saint Paul's College in that it attempts to provide a panorama of the news and activities of the school year. It is also an outlet for creative expression. There are such writings as editorials, columns, feature articles and poetry. This year the campus paper has set a record of achievement that will be hard to match in future years. This has been due to the teamwork of the staff and the able direction of the Editor.

Randolph Edmonds Player's Guild

The tradition that the Randolph Edmonds Player's Guild has inherited is a rich one. Randolph Edmonds for whom the guild is named is a talented artist and a gifted teacher. The goals of the guild and the life of Mr. Edmonds are almost synonymous. The Negro drama is now certainly a part of America's literary tradition and the guild endeavors to carry forward this great tradition. A series of plays during this school year has provided the college family with quality entertainment.

Who's Who Seniors

Recognition by WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES means that the student was first recommended from the university or college he attends and then accepted by the organization.

Nominating committees consider the student's scholarship, his leadership and co-operation in educational and extra-curricular activities, his general citizenship, and his promise for future usefulness.

The four seniors at Saint Paul's who merited the award this year are examples of the outstanding college student. This college has benefited by their presence, and they will carry with them the mark of Saint Paul's through the endeavors of their future life. We are proud of these students and congratulate them for a job well done.

The Tau Society

The Tau Society is devoted to inspiring within its member the idea of Christian service. Its members who represent varying denominations, take part in spiritual, social and cultural activities. There are such projects as "College Day", and the giving of food baskets to the needy in the community. By its dedication to principles of Christian love and charity, The Tau Society has become one of the largest and most respected organizations on campus.

The Inter-Fraternal Council is responsible for the formulation of rules and regulations governing fraternities and sororities. Representatives of the six Greek letter organizations join with Mr. T. H. E. Jones who first organized the Council, in pursuing aims and objectives common to all Greeks.

Founding and History of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority

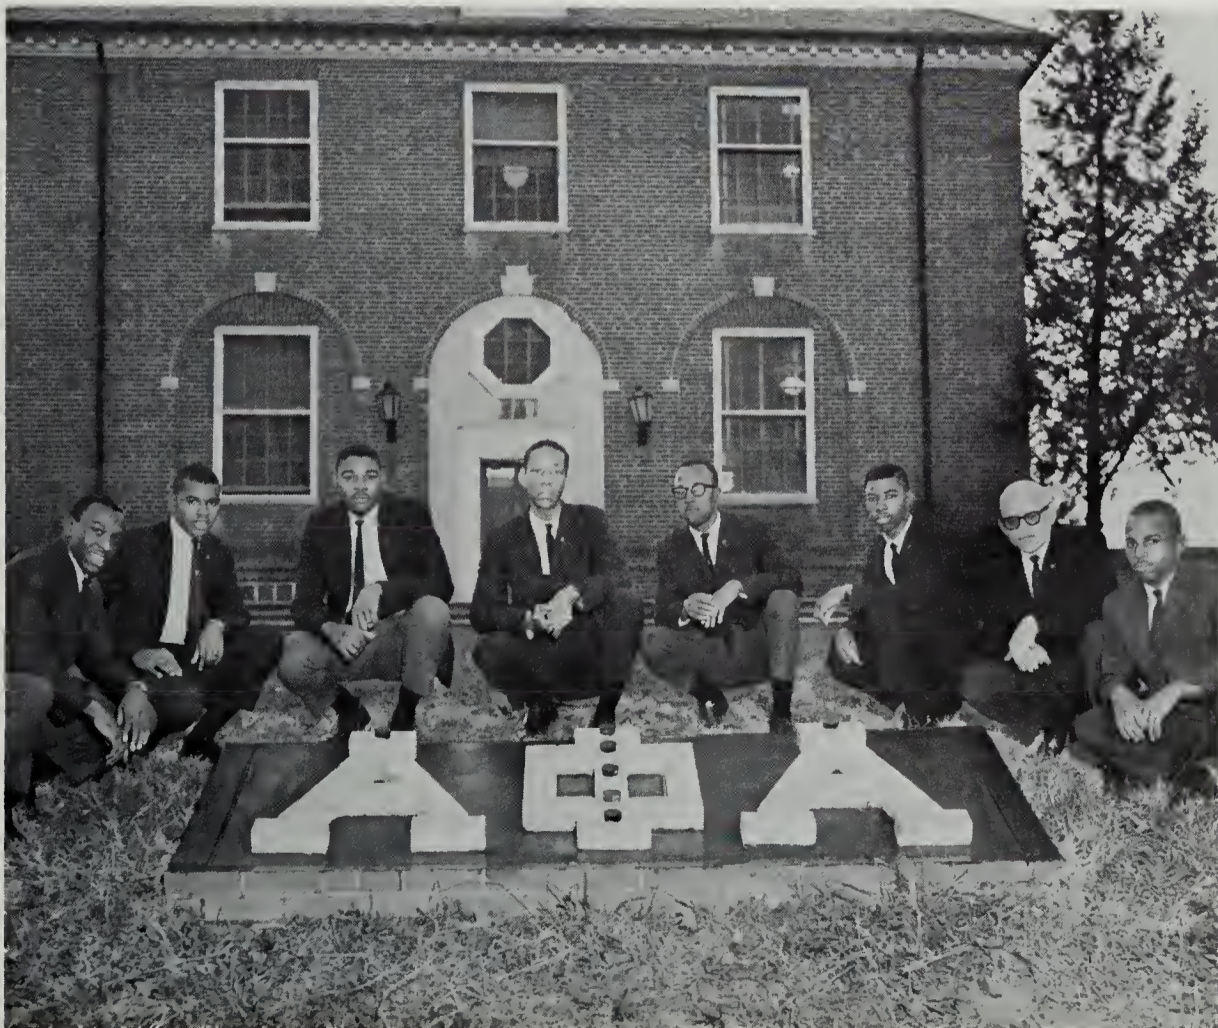

IVY LEAF CLUB

Since its humble beginning more than a half a century ago, Alpha Kappa Alpha women, all over the world still strive to uphold their cherished precepts. The desire for SERVICE TO ALL MANKIND . . . initiated 16 young women on the campus of Howard University January 16, 1908, to establish the first Greek-letter organization for Negro College women.

The twenty-nine sorors of Alpha Upsilon Chapter combine their efforts in a sincere dedication to cultivate and encourage high scholastic, cultural ethical and moral standards.

Founding and History of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity

THE SPHINX CLUB

Through the years, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity has stood as a beaconing light to college men across the nation and across the world. Founded at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, December 4, 1906, Alpha was the first Greek letter fraternity for Negro college men, becoming interracial in 1945. Out of the collective personalities of Cornell came the founding Jewels. They were: Henry A. Callis, George B. Kelley, Charles H. Chapman, Vertner W. Tandy, Nathaniel A. Murray, Eugene K. Jones, and Robert H. Ogle.

Here at Saint Paul's, Delta Tau Chapter was founded November 22, 1952. Like the Jewels of old, the brothers are dedicated to "Manly deeds, scholarship and love for all mankind."

Alpha has participated in every progressive movement for good, staged on the American scene since its founding, and her sons have been in the forefront of every outstanding civic, political, religious and social endeavor.

A History of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority

THE PYRAMID CLUB

At the inception of Delta Sigma Theta in 1913 at Howard University, the founders envisioned an organization of college women pledged to serious endeavor and community service. These youthful students demonstrated a vital concern for social welfare, academic excellence, and cultural enrichment, and de-emphasized the social side of sorority life. Their ideals of scholarship and service withstood the test of time, and today Delta Sigma Theta is a public service sorority, dedicated to a program of sharing membership skills and organizational service in the public interest. In 1930, Delta Sigma Theta was incorporated as a national organization. The record of incorporation is filed in the Congressional Library in the Office of the Recorder of Deeds in Washington, D. C. Today, there are over 35 thousand members, and 275 chapters in 38 states, and the Republic of Haiti and Liberia. On January 12, 1963 at its fiftieth Anniversary celebration in Washington, D. C., President John F. Kennedy, the guest of honor, congratulated the organization on its "service to the country."

A History of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity

LAMPADO'S CLUB

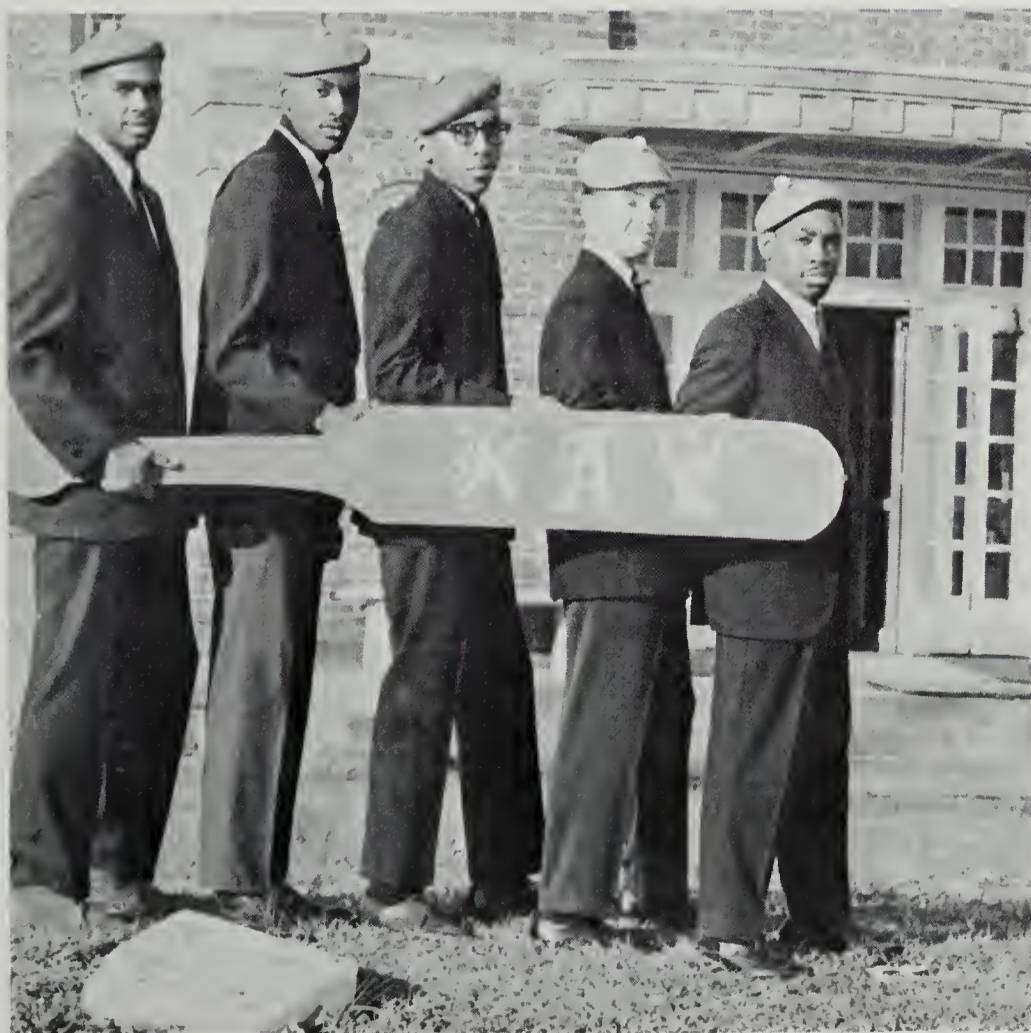

The Omega Psi Phi Fraternity was organized Friday evening, November 17, 1911, in the office of Ernest E. Just, Professor of Biology, Howard University. The organizers were three students in the college of Liberal Arts, Edgar A. Love, Oscar L. Cooper, and Frank Coleman. Professor Just was their faculty advisor. Manhood, scholarship, uplift and perseverance were adopted as cardinal principles. The design for the pen was decided to be in the shape of the shield. Love became its first Grand Basileus. Cooper and Coleman were selected Grand Keeper of Record and Grand Keeper of Seals respectively. The name of the first chapter of the fraternity was Alpha. October 28, 1914, the fraternity was incorporated and declared a national organization by the United States Congress under the laws governing the District of Columbia. Omega men have had national aspiration and proved to be effective workers through hard work.

AURORA CLUB

History of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority

Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, Incorporated was organized on November 12, 1922 in Indianapolis, Indiana. The purpose of this sorority is expressed in its slogan "Greater Service, Greater Progress." Activities are encouraged that will further in every way possible the advantages of its members intellectually, morally and socially. In keeping with the ideals of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority Incorporated, the National Body maintains membership in the following organizations: American Council on Human Rights, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, National Council of Negro Women, National Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, and the National Pan Hellenic Council. The organization is interracial.

Christmas Festival

Winter descended on Saint Paul's campus and Christmas was in the air, filling the atmosphere with joy and warmth. The annual Family Christmas Tree was held in Kirby Auditorium. Saint Paulites exchanged gifts and sang carols. The S. Randolph Edmond's Players presented a Christmas play. The true meaning of Christmas was brought forth, instilling in the audience with the real meaning of this joyous season.

...acaluareate, May 1965: President McClenney, Dr. ... Robinson, and Chap-
...an Alexander Easley.

Spring has come to Saint Paul's, and with it, a rush of activity. To the senior it is the close of one era and the beginning of another. As a freshman he comes in contact with a vast body of knowledge. As a sophomore and junior, he continues to struggle upward. In his senior year, his purpose for being here gels in his mind. He departs from Saint Paul's not as he came—but as a man prepared for life in the truest sense.

The Party's Over

In front of me lies 93 pages of TIGER '66. The room which once bustled with activity is now quiet, and I have one final page to write. I can truly say that editing this book will be one of my memorable experiences here at Saint Paul's College.

The yearbook was put together by a faithful and uncomplaining team. A group of seniors provided the nucleus around which the staff rallied. These included Julia Butler, Shirlene Watkins, Carolyn Williams, Agnes Bailey, Gloria Davis, Rebecca Fitzgerald, Betty Slayton, Irving Richardson, William Watkins, and Preston Moore. The special art work was done by John Cason. A special thanks is sent to Floyd Parks, a member of the freshman class, who lent his time and photographic talent to the success of this year's annual.

These were the nucleus of workers, however there are always other staff members who do a number of things that go unrecorded. Thanks to all of you also.

I hope you, the student body, will enjoy TIGER '66. It is a representative picture of our college and of the lives we lead as Saint Paulites. I hope that in the years to come, you will from time to time take it off the shelf and re-live the glory of the 1965-66 academic year at Saint Paul's College.
